

Assistant Head Coach Brad Scott

- Offensive Line
- 7th Season at Clemson
- South Florida '79

Brad Scott is in his seventh year with the Tiger program after serving at the helm at South Carolina from 1994-98.

The 51-year old (on September 30) holds the title of assistant head coach and offensive line coach.

Scott served as offensive coordinator from 2000-03 and Clemson produced three of the top six seasons in school history in terms of total offense. The 2003 team gained 5,467 yards, most in school history. Records were also established for passing yards, completions, and touchdown passes. His offense was a big reason Clemson won its final four games of 2003 by 27 points per game. That included a 63-17 win at South Carolina, the most points Clemson has ever scored against the Gamecocks.

Scott has been an assistant coach at Clemson for all six seasons of the Tommy Bowden era and is a main reason the Tigers have been bowl eligible in all six years. The Tigers have also recorded four top-10 wins, including victories over Miami (FL), Tennessee, and Florida State the last two seasons. Over 125 offensive records have been established since Scott came to Clemson.

Scott's 2001 offense gained more than 5,000 yards for only the third time in school history. The 5,184 yards rank as the third-highest total in Tiger history, as Scott effectively used the talents of Woodrow Dantzler, who became the first quarterback in NCAA history to throw for 2,000 yards and rush for 1,000 yards in the same season.

Scott has been helpful on the recruiting front. Many of Clemson's top ranked recruits in a national top-10 class in 2001 were players he recruited. Clemson had another top-20 class in 2005.

Scott's triumphs in recruiting, especially in the state of South Carolina, date to his days as an assistant coach at Florida State and the head coach at South Carolina. South Carolina had a record five players drafted in 2002, players recruited under Scott's tenure in Columbia.

In his first season at South Carolina in 1994, he led the Gamecocks to their first postseason bowl win in school history with a 24-21 win over West Virginia at the Carquest Bowl. The win climaxed a 7-5 year for the Gamecocks. The win that clinched the bowl bid was ironically a victory at Clemson. Scott posted a 2-1 record against the Tigers in Death Valley and is one of just seven opposing coaches in history with a winning record in Death Valley (minimum of three games).

Before coming to South Carolina, Scott was on Bobby Bowden's staff at Florida State for 11 years. While there, the Seminoles went 10-0-1 in bowl games. Scott is 13-3-1 in his career in bowls as an assistant or head coach.

He joined the Seminole staff in 1983, and spent his last four years there as the offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. Those four years included Florida State's 1993 national championship season.

Florida State posted a 44-6 (.880) record with Scott as offensive coordinator, which ranked as the most wins by a Division 1-A program during those four years. The Seminoles won four consecutive bowl games and finished ranked no lower than fourth in the nation during that span.

Scott served as the Seminole recruiting coordinator for six years, where he built a reputation as a top-notch recruiter. The 1985 and 1989 classes were ranked #1 in the nation, and he was responsible for building the core of the 1993 national champions.

Prior to joining the Seminole program, he was the head football coach and athletic director at DeSoto County High in Arcadia, FL (1982-83). He was tabbed the conference coach-of-the-year in 1982. It marked the second time he was a part of the DeSoto program, as he began his coaching career there in 1979 as an assistant coach.

Scott spent the 1981-82 years as a graduate assistant on Art Baker's staff at The Citadel. Before arriving there, he was an assistant at Hardee County High in Wauchula, FL for two years (1980,81).

The players he has recruited and coached read like a "Who's Who" of NFL mainstays. While at Florida State, Scott recruited Deion Sanders, Edgar Bennett, LeRoy Butler, Dexter Carter, Carl Simpson, Clay Shiver, and Chris Weinke, who in 1997 passed up a pro baseball career to play college football and won the Heisman Trophy in 2000.

Scott began his college days at Missouri-Rolla, where he was a two-year starter on the offensive line. He is a 1979 graduate of South Florida, where he received a bachelor of arts degree in science education. He received a master of science degree in athletic administration from Florida State in 1984.

Scott and his wife, Daryle, have two sons, Jeff (24) and John (21). Jeff graduated from Clemson in 2003, and is the head football coach at Blythewood (SC) High School. He was a Tiger letterman and played in three bowl games (2000-02). Jeff married his wife, the former Sara McDaniel, shortly after his graduation from Clemson. John is a senior at Harvard, where he is a member of the football team. He lettered for the undefeated Clemson in 2004.

Assistant Coach Vic Koenning

- Defensive Coordinator
- Defensive Backs
- 1st Season at Clemson
- Kansas State '83

Vic Koenning, who led Troy's 2004 defense to a top-10 national ranking in scoring defense, rushing defense, yards per play, and pass efficiency defense, is in his first season as Clemson's defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach.

Koenning's defense was sixth in the nation in pass efficiency defense, eighth in rushing defense, and 10th in scoring defense for the Trojans in 2004, helping the squad to a 7-5 record and a Silicon Valley Bowl appearance against Northern Illinois. Ironically, the only other Division I school to rank in the top 10 of all three primary defensive categories in 2004 was another school with Trojans as their nickname, National Champion Southern California.

Troy's defense was also first in the nation in interceptions (25) and tied for second in turnovers forced (32), in addition to ninth in the nation in fewest yards per play allowed and 16th in the nation in total defense (311.0). Only Southern California had more takeaways than Troy on defense with 38.

Of the 12 teams Troy faced in 2004, 11 failed to reach their scoring average for the course of the season. Teams scored an average of six points per game less than their season average when facing Koenning's defense in 2004, including Missouri, South Carolina, and Louisiana State, who combined to average just 18 points per game.

The defending National Champion Tigers of Louisiana defeated Troy 24-20 in Baton Rouge at midseason, but accumulated just 57 yards rushing against the Trojans, the season low for Nick Saban's rushing attack that ranked 20th in the nation and averaged 194 yards per game.

Koenning's defense featured standout performances by defensive lineman Demarcus Ware, who ranked eighth in the nation in sacks and 13th in tackles for loss, and two players who ranked among the top 16 in the nation in interceptions, defensive backs Johnny Faulk and Derrick Ansley. Ware was the #15 selection of the NFL draft by the Dallas Cowboys in April of 2005.

Troy forced 32 turnovers in 2004 to rank tied for second in the nation behind National Champion Southern California. It marked the third time in his last five years as a defensive coordinator that his defense ranked in the top six in the nation in turnovers forced. His 2003 Troy defense ranked sixth in the nation in turnovers forced, and his 1997 Wyoming defense led the nation in that category.

The 25 interceptions that led the nation in 2004 marked the second time that he coached a secondary that led the nation in that category. His 1997 Wyoming defense had a school-record and national-best 24 thefts.

Koenning spent two seasons at Troy as the defensive coordinator under Larry Blakeney. Prior to that, he was the head coach at Wyoming from 2000-02. He coached 10 Cowboy players who earned first-team all-conference honors and 12 who were second-team selections during his five seasons at Wyoming, including three years as head coach and two years as defensive coordinator.

In 1997, Koenning's first season as Wyoming's defensive coordinator, the Cowboys ranked second in the nation in sacks, sixth in pass defense, 17th in scoring defense, and 23rd in total defense. In 1998, his defense ranked 28th in scoring defense.

Koenning served as a full-time assistant coach working with the defensive backs at Memphis from 1991-96. In his first year, he helped the Tigers to a 24-10 upset of #14 Southern California in the Los Angeles Coliseum. His second season with the program saw

The Tigers enjoyed another successful year on defense in 1993, as Koenning's unit ranked 16th in the nation in total defense. In 1994, the Tigers were again ranked third in the nation in total defense and eighth in scoring defense. His final year at Memphis was highlighted by a 21-17 upset of in-state rival and #6 Tennessee.

Koenning spent 10 years in Memphis altogether. Between 1986-90, he worked as a graduate assistant and strength training coach with the Tiger football program.

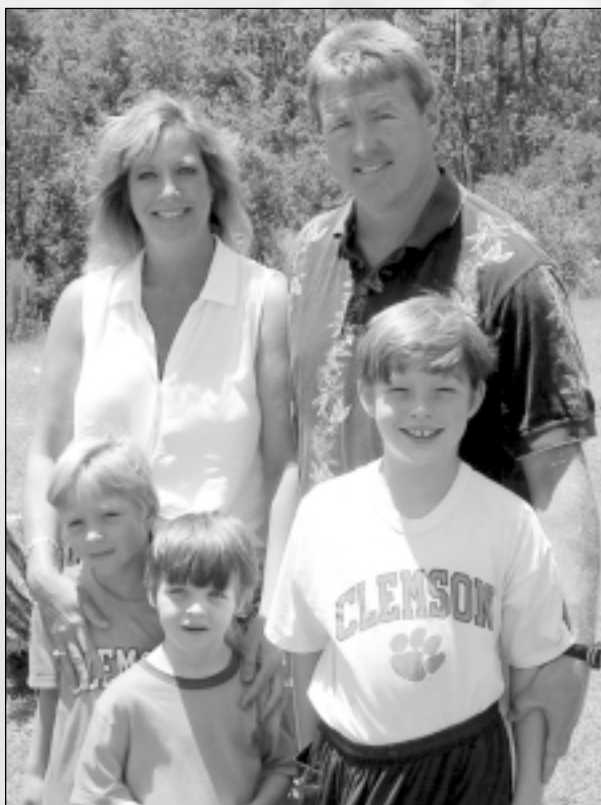

A standout linebacker at Kansas State, he was a three-year starter who was the team captain in 1982. He led that Wildcat team to the Independence Bowl, the school's first-ever bowl appearance, as a senior. He was the recipient of the Paul Coffman Award, which is presented each year to the Wildcat who displays the most outstanding leadership.

Koenning pursued a pro career with the Denver Broncos, Oklahoma Outlaws (USFL), and the Green Bay Packers between 1983-86 before starting work on his master's degree at Memphis in 1986.

Koenning and his wife Tracey have four children, Kimberly (25), Brady (9), Camden (5), and Jackson (4).

Assistant Coach Rob Spence

- Offensive Coordinator
- Quarterbacks
- 1st Season at Clemson
- Iona '81

Rob Spence is in his first year as Clemson's offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. The veteran assistant led Toledo to four-consecutive top-13 final rankings in total offense, and helped the Rocket program to 35 victories over the last four years.

Spence has been successful running and throwing the ball, and this was particularly attractive to Head Coach Tommy Bowden when he made the hire after the 2004 season. Twice in his four years, Toledo ranked in the top 20 in the nation in rushing, and twice the team finished in the top 20 in passing.

Spence was not a one-year wonder with the Rockets. All four of his offenses at Toledo ranked in the top 13 in the nation in total offense and in the top 25 in scoring offense. He had a running attack that has ranked in the top 20 in the nation (twice in four years), and had the seventh-best passing team in the nation in 2004. And he accomplished those numbers with three different quarterbacks in his four years as coordinator.

Spence guided a Toledo offense that averaged 474.1 yards per game and 35.2 points per game during he 2004 regular season that included a 9-3 overall record and the Mid-American Conference Championship. It was the third time in four years that Toledo played for the MAC title.

The Rockets gained 2,013 yards rushing and 3,676 yards passing in the 2004 regular season, joining Louisville (11-1), Southern California (12-0), and Oklahoma (12-0) as the only offenses in the nation to record at least 2,000 yards rushing and 3,000 yards passing. Toledo's 3,676 yards passing were the most in the nation among schools who rushed for at least 2,000 yards during the regular season.

As quarterbacks coach at Toledo, Spence groomed consistent and efficient signal-callers. In each of his four years as coordinator, Toledo's starting quarterbacks ranked in the top 16 in the nation in passing efficiency. That was quite an accomplishment considering those rankings were achieved by three different quarterbacks.

In 2003, the Rockets ranked 11th in the nation in total offense and sixth in passing efficiency, and averaged 32.4 points per game, significant reasons for Toledo's 8-4 record that included two top-25 wins. Bruce Gradkowski was second in the nation in completion percentage (71.2).

The 2002 season featured an offense that ranked fifth in the nation with an average of 472 yards per game and scored 35.4 points per contest. The Rockets ranked in the top 30 in the country in rushing (16th, 214) and passing (29th, 258). The team finished with a 9-5 record and won the MAC West title, and earned a berth in the Motor City Bowl.

In 2001, Spence's first year with the program, saw Tavares Bolden set a then-MAC record for completion percentage (68.7), and the team ranked in the top 16 in the nation in scoring (34.9), total offense (444.5), and rushing (213.4). Chester Taylor totaled 1,620 yards and 24 touchdowns, numbers that sent him to the NFL.

Spence came to Toledo after a year as the co-offensive coordinator at Louisiana Tech, where he tutored then-freshman Luke McCown, who threw for 2,533 yards and 21 touchdowns on the way to a freshman All-America season. Louisiana Tech ranked seventh in the nation in passing that year with an average of nearly 310 yards per game.

Spence was the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Division I-AA Hofstra from 1997-99. In 1999, Hofstra averaged 34 points per game, and finished the year with an 11-2 record and #5 national ranking. His 1998 offense averaged 38.7 points per game and ranked ninth in the nation in total offense with 464.9 yards per game.

Spence was an assistant coach at Maryland under Mark Duffner from 1992-96, a time period when Maryland set 70 school records on the offensive side of the ball. In 1994, with Spence serving as the quarterbacks coach, Maryland ranked 10th in the nation in passing.

In 1991, Spence coached the quarterbacks at Holy Cross under Duffner, and helped the Crusaders to an 11-0 record and a #3 national ranking. Holy Cross ranked fourth in the nation in total offense and ninth in passing at the I-AA level that year.

Spence worked as the offensive coordinator at Hofstra in 1990, helping that program to a 12-1 record and #3 national ranking. He was the offensive coordinator at Iona, his alma mater, in 1989, and that team posted an 8-2 record.

Spence began his coaching career as an assistant coach at Pelham (NY) Memorial High in 1981 before moving to Iona Prep in New Rochelle, NY in 1982. He was the varsity offensive coordinator in 1982 and the head junior varsity coach in 1983. He then became the head coach at Iona Prep in 1984, a position he served for five seasons until he started his college coaching career at Iona. His five year head coaching record was 29-19-1 at Iona Prep.

Spence, a native of Pelham, NY, played high school football at Saint Andrews High in Middletown, DE (1972-75). He went on to play tight end at Iona from 1978-81. He earned his bachelor's degree in social work from Iona in 1981 and later earned his master's degree in education from Iona in 1990.

An avid runner who ran in the Boston Marathon in April of 2005, the 46-year-old Spence and his wife Susan have two daughters, Samantha (13) and Sydney Rae (11).

Assistant Coach David Blackwell

- Recruiting Coordinator
- Inside Linebackers
- 3rd Season at Clemson
- East Carolina '97

David Blackwell is in his third season as an assistant coach with the Clemson football program. Blackwell serves as recruiting coordinator and coaches the inside linebackers.

Clemson ranked in the top 10 in the nation in sacks in 2004, a big reason the Tigers finished 11th in pass efficiency defense. Leroy Hill's development under Blackwell was consistent over his last two years, leading to his selection in the third round of the 2005 NFL draft by the Seattle Seahawks. Hill was named the ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year, a Third-Team AP All-American, and was a two-time First-Team All-ACC selection.

Blackwell's linebackers were a big reason Clemson finished with a top-25 final ranking and nine wins in 2003. Clemson ranked in the top 25 in the nation in scoring defense in his first year in Tigertown. Hill had a lot to do with that, as the junior had 145 tackles, including 27 behind the line of scrimmage (second-most in the nation). His runningmate at the insider linebacker position, John Leake, added 131 tackles, including 12 tackles for loss. They were the leaders of a defensive unit that allowed #3 Florida State and #6 Tennessee just 49 combined rushing yards in Clemson victories at the end of the 2003 season.

Blackwell has directed Clemson's recruiting efforts each of the last two years as well. His 2005 class was a consensus top-25 class, including ratings as high as #16 in the nation. Nineteen of Clemson's 24 signees in 2005 were ranked in the top 50 of their positions by Rivals.com.

Blackwell has significant experience at the Division I level as both a defensive coach and as a recruiter. He was the linebackers coach at Pittsburgh from 2000-02. He was a big reason the Panthers went to three straight bowl games during that period.

The Panthers finished with a 9-4 record and #18 ranking in ESPN/USA Today Coaches' poll at the conclusion of the 2002 season. Their season included a 38-13 win over Oregon State in the Insight.com Bowl. Thus Blackwell was an assistant on top-25 teams in consecutive years with two different programs.

In 2002, the Panthers' point prevention unit ranked 14th in the nation in scoring defense, 12th in total defense, 15th in pass efficiency defense, and 24th in rushing defense. Pittsburgh was one of the few programs in the nation to rank in the top 25 in all four major categories.

Blackwell's linebacker corps at Pittsburgh was led by Gerald Hayes, an All-American and three-time all-conference selection, who had at least 100 tackles in each of his last three seasons. Hayes was just one of many standouts coached by Blackwell, as seven of his former players have signed NFL contracts.

Prior to his stop at Pittsburgh, Blackwell was an assistant at Illinois State from 1996-99. He had a big part in one of the top turnarounds in NCAA I-AA football during that time period. In 1999, Illinois State compiled a school-best 11-3 record and advanced to the semifinals of the I-AA playoffs before losing to eventual national champion Georgia Southern.

Blackwell joined the Redbirds' staff as a defensive line coach and recruiting coordinator. He served as recruiting coordinator for four seasons. One of his primary recruiting areas was the state of Florida.

In his first season at Illinois State, Blackwell's defensive line accounted for 38 of the team's 47 quarterback sacks, the second-highest total in school history. He coached three All-Americans and 11 all-conference performers at Illinois State. In 1999, All-American Galen Scott, one of Blackwell's linebackers, totaled 173 tackles, including 27 tackles in a single game, both school records.

Blackwell began his coaching career at his alma mater, East Carolina, as rush linebackers coach between the 1993 and 1995 seasons. The Pirates earned trips to the Liberty Bowl in two of those seasons.

On the gridiron, Blackwell went to East Carolina in 1990 as a freshman offensive lineman. His top game came against national power Florida State when he graded out at 85 percent. In 1991, a year in which East Carolina posted an 11-1 record and a #9 ranking in the final Associated Press poll, Blackwell's playing career was cut short by a neck injury. Blackwell remained close to the program and served as a student assistant on the coaching staff in 1992.

Blackwell, a native of Greenville, SC and a graduate of Berea High School, went on to graduate with a B.S. degree in exercise science from East Carolina in 1997.

He is married to the former Melissa Androustos, who served as the sports information director for men's basketball at Pittsburgh.

Assistant Coach Burton Burns

- Running Backs
- 7th Season at Clemson
- Nebraska '76

Burton Burns joined the Tiger coaching staff prior to the 1999 season, and now is in his seventh season as the Tigers' running backs coach. He came to Tigertown after four seasons with Tulane, including two under Head Coach Tommy Bowden. Bowden has been a Division I head coach for eight seasons and has had a bowl eligible team in all eight years. Burns has been at his side for every game.

Clemson's ground game has prospered since Burns came to Clemson before the 1999 season. The Tigers ranked 10th in the country and first in the ACC in rushing in 2000 thanks in large part to the 1,027-yard season turned in by Travis Zachery. Zachery earned All-ACC accolades in the 2000 season and finished his career ranked fifth in Clemson history in rushing.

Clemson has established nearly 125 records on offense since Burns came to Clemson, including Travis Zachery's career touchdown mark. Zachery's total of 50 touchdowns is second most in ACC history.

Burns has shown an ability to teach his running backs all phases of the game. In his first six years, Clemson running backs have made over 175 receptions, more than any six-year period in Clemson history. Travis Zachery owns the Clemson season and career marks for receptions by a running back.

In 2003, Duane Coleman joined Zachery as the only running backs in school history with over 600 yards rushing and 300 yards receiving in the same year. He also helped the Tigers establish school records for total offense, passing yards, and first downs in a single season. The 5.7 yards per play average was the second-best figure in school history.

Ball protection is an important area Burns stresses daily in practice. That practice was the reason Clemson running backs did not lose a fumble during the entire 2003 season and lost just one in 2004.

The play of the Clemson running backs was a major reason Clemson made a six-place jump in the ACC standings in 1999, the best improvement in ACC history. Clemson made a four-win improvement in the Division-I win total and played Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl.

Players he has coached have made significant improvement over their careers. Chad Jasmin, a graduate student in 2003, was an example. The running back finished his career with a four-touchdown game at rival South Carolina and a 130-yard rushing performance in the Peach Bowl against #6 Tennessee, where he earned offensive MVP honors.

Reggie Merriweather, Clemson's top rusher in 2004, is another example. He improved from a 56-yard rushing total as a freshman in 2003 to a 670-yard year and 11 touchdowns in 2004. Merriweather was second in the ACC in touchdowns in 2004 as well.

Burns has also had a positive effect on Clemson's special teams. The Tigers' kickoff return team finished third in the nation in the 2004 season, and featured NCAA kickoff return champion Justin Miller.

Burns spent the 1997 and 1998 seasons directing a much improved Green Wave running attack. In 1997, Tulane averaged 182.9 yards per game on the ground. During the 1998 regular season, the Green Wave's ground attack improved to 202.4 rushing yards per game, a figure that ranked 23rd in the country.

Burns was one of the coaches responsible for Tulane's incredible turnaround during the 1997 and 1998 seasons. The Green Wave were 19-4 in those two seasons, including a perfect 12-0 campaign and a #7 final ranking during the 1998 season. The balanced offense and rushing game had a lot to do with the Green Waves' scoring average of over 45 points per contest, the second-best figure in the nation. Three of Burns' backs gained over 500 yards in the magic season.

Burns joined the Tulane staff on December 9, 1994 after nine seasons as assistant head coach and offensive coordinator at Saint Augustine High School in New Orleans, LA. He helped his high school alma mater to district titles in 1987, 1992, and 1993. Burns also coached at the school from 1977-79, and during that time the Purple Knights won three district titles and back-to-back Class AAAA state championships in 1978 and 1979 under head coach Otis Washington.

In 1980, Burns was an assistant coach on a district championship team at Booker T. Washington High School in Shreveport, LA. Following that year, he would again work under Otis Washington at Southern University. During his five-year stint at Southern, the Jaguars finished in the top two of the Southwestern Athletic Conference on three occasions.

Burns played fullback for four seasons at Nebraska and graduated from the university with a bachelor of science degree in education in 1976. He was a member of three Cornhusker teams that won at least nine games each season. Burns was also a member of the Nebraska teams that participated in the Orange Bowl, Cotton Bowl, and Sugar Bowl, all under legendary Hall of Fame Coach Tom Osborne.

At Tulane, Burns coached Jerald Sowell, who played for the New York Jets. He also coached Sean Jackson, Tyrone Hughes, David White, and Louis Age at Saint Augustine High School. All four of those players went on to the NFL.

Burns is married to the former Connie Winder, and they have four children, Amber (31), Christy (28), Damon (23), and Erin (21). Damon was a starting outfielder for Texas Southern in 2004 and had three hits in the team's upset of defending National Champion Rice in an NCAA Tournament game played at Houston, TX.

Assistant Coach Jack Hines

- Tight Ends
- 7th Season at Clemson
- West Virginia '72

Jack Hines is in his seventh year with the Clemson football program after serving on the staff at Auburn from 1993-

98. The 55-year old is responsible for the tight ends, a position he also coached in 2004. Hines coached on the defensive side of the ball at Clemson from 1999-03. In 2003, he was in charge of the Whip linebackers and rovers, as both positions were a big reason Clemson finished the season ranked in the top 20 in the nation in scoring defense and second in the ACC in pass defense. Jamaal Fudge had over 100 tackles on Clemson's hard-hitting defense.

Clemson's first year (1999) with Jack Hines guiding the secondary was very successful. The pass defense ranked 17th in the country and second best in the ACC. The Tigers accumulated 19 interceptions, the highest total by a Clemson team since 1995 and 10th best in Clemson history. The Tigers finished the 1999 season ranked ninth in the country in total interceptions.

These statistics were not recorded against second rate competition. Hines had to prepare to play five of the top eight quarterbacks in the nation in terms of passing efficiency. The list of opposing quarterbacks on the 1999 agenda included Chris Weinke of Florida State, Michael Vick of Virginia Tech, Chad Pennington of Marshall, and Joe Hamilton of Georgia Tech.

Under Hines' coaching, Robert Carswell and Alex Ardley both ranked in the top 20 in the nation in interceptions per game. It marked the first time Clemson had two of the top-20 pass interceptors in the country in the same year.

In 2000, Hines' defensive backs helped Clemson rank 18th in the nation in rushing defense and 23rd in scoring defense. Ardley and Carswell were both first team All-ACC selections and Ardley ranked eighth in the nation in interceptions per game. Clemson opponents threw just nine touchdown passes all year, the second-best mark in the ACC. Clemson's pass efficiency defense was also second in the ACC. In 2001, Hines coached second-team All-ACC defensive back Charles Hafley. He was ninth overall in the ACC in tackles per game with 11.0.

In 2002, Hines coached two of the top-10 tacklers in the nation in John Leake and Rodney Thomas. Their season totals are among the top-10 single-season figures in Clemson history. The play of the linebackers had a lot to do with Clemson's 40-yard-per-game improvement in total defense in 2002.

Hines has also coached Clemson's kickers and punters the last six years. He coached the Tigers' career scoring leader (Aaron Hunt) from 2000-03. Clemson placekickers have made 60-80 field goals the last four seasons, a strong 75-percent mark.

Hines' tenure at Auburn began in 1993 when he coached the defensive backs. His coaching contributed to Auburn's perfect 11-0 season and #4 final ranking in the Associated Press poll. In 1994, the Auburn secondary intercepted 22 passes, the fourth-highest total in school history. Auburn returned eight interceptions for touchdowns during his first two years as secondary coach.

In an exciting 30-26 victory over Louisiana State in 1994, Auburn picked off four second-half passes and returned three of them for touchdowns. The last three seasons, Hines was responsible for Auburn's inside linebackers. The 1997 Tiger team won the Western Division of the SEC. Hines coached for six years at Auburn under Terry Bowden and is in his seventh year with Tommy Bowden at Clemson.

Before coming to Auburn, Hines spent six seasons at Samford in Birmingham, AL, where he had various titles. In his first season in 1987, he served as the school's recruiting coordinator. During the 1987-92 seasons, Hines was Samford's defensive coordinator as well as defensive backs coach.

Hines began his college coaching career in 1980 as a volunteer assistant at West Virginia. Before joining the Mountaineer staff, Hines had been an assistant coach at Morgantown High School for six seasons. After a year at West Virginia, Hines was a graduate assistant at Florida State for two years (1985,86).

As a player, Hines was a defensive back at West Virginia. He played in Morgantown for three seasons and was a member of the Mountaineers' 1969 Peach Bowl team. He actually first attended West Virginia as a walk-on on the basketball team and played only basketball during his freshman season.

As a graduate assistant coach at Florida State in 1986, Hines worked with future NFL star cornerback Deion Sanders. While at Auburn, Hines coached future Arizona Cardinal Dell McGee, consensus first-team All-American Brian Robinson, and 1995 Co-SEC Freshman Defensive Player-of-the-Year Martavius Houston. Hines also coached Cincinnati Bengal and former Auburn All-America linebacker Takeo Spikes.

Hines is married to the former Robyn Bowden, and the couple has two children, Robert (24) and Jacquelyn (19). Jacquelyn is a sophomore on the Clemson women's soccer team in 2005.

Assistant Coach Marion Hobby

- Defensive Line
- 1st Season at Clemson
- Tennessee '95

Marion Hobby is in his first year as the Tigers' defensive line coach. He came to Clemson in January of 2005 after six successful seasons as a defensive assistant coach at Mississippi.

Hobby was a member of the Mississippi staff that took the Rebels to a 44-29 record over the last six seasons, including a 10-3 record in the 2003 season, a season that included a Cotton Bowl victory over Oklahoma State. Hobby coached in five bowl games during his time at Mississippi, and the Rebels won four of them, posting victories over Big 12 foes Texas Tech, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and Oklahoma State.

Hobby came to Mississippi in December of 1998 to serve under Head Coach David Cutcliffe. In his first full season on the staff as a defensive coach (1999), Mississippi ranked fourth in the nation in rushing defense, allowing just 78.1 yards per game. During his time at Mississippi, Hobby coached Derrick Burgess, a third-team All-American and First-Team All-SEC selection, who was a third-round selection of the Philadelphia Eagles in the 2001 NFL draft, and Charlie Anderson, who was a fifth-round pick of the Houston Texans in 2005.

The 2002 season included a 17-14 victory over a top-10 Florida team in Oxford, MS. In 2003 while coaching the defensive ends, Hobby's unit helped Mississippi to a #14 national ranking in rushing defense. The Rebels also recorded 106 tackles for loss that year, 22 more than the previous season and 51 more than 2001.

Hobby entered the coaching profession in 1995 coaching defensive tackles at Tennessee-Martin. He then served two years at Louisiana-Lafayette. In 1996, Hobby was the head strength and conditioning coach, then coached the defensive tackles in 1997.

During the 1998 season, he returned to Tennessee to serve as an assistant strength and conditioning coach. Tennessee won the National Championship that year.

"Marion Hobby is an excellent addition to our staff for a number of reasons," said Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "He had a distinguished career as a player at the college level and professionally. As a result, he also comes to Clemson with the reputation of an outstanding recruiter. When he meets with a prospect about what it takes to get to the NFL, he has credibility. He played at that level. He has also worked on many successful defenses and is an outstanding coach on the field. We look forward to having Marion, his wife Constance and his family joining our program."

Hobby had an outstanding playing career at Tennessee between the 1986 and 1989 seasons. He was a three-year starter at defensive end (1987-89), a four-year letterman, and served as the team captain for the 1989 season. That year, the Volunteers finished with an 11-1 record, including a victory over Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl. It was the best record for a Tennessee team in 20 years.

Hobby was a First-Team All-SEC selection as senior (1989) and was later named to Tennessee's 100-Year Anniversary team.

Hobby was a third-round draft choice, the 74th selection of the 1990 NFL draft, by the Minnesota Vikings. He played three seasons (1990-92) with the New England Patriots for a total of 42 games. He totaled five sacks, including three during his rookie campaign of 1990.

Hobby, a native of Irondale, AL, earned his bachelor of science degree from Tennessee in 1995. He is married to the former Constance Price, and they have three children, Maria (12), Mariah (12), and Camille (4).

Assistant Coach Dabo Swinney

- Wide Receivers
- 3rd Season at Clemson
- Alabama '93

Dabo Swinney is in his third season as the Tigers' wide receivers coach, but he has known Head Coach Tommy Bowden for many years. As a player for the Alabama Crimson Tide in 1989, Bowden was Swinney's position coach.

Swinney came to Alabama as a walk-on, but quickly earned a scholarship. Bowden was familiar with his work-ethic and thus did not hesitate to hire the Alabama native when he had an opening on his staff in 2003.

The hire proved to be a good one, as Clemson set numerous receiving records in Swinney's first season. His receivers were a big reason Clemson set school records for receptions, reception yards, and touchdown receptions in 2003. Airese Currie, Derrick Hamilton, and Kevin Youngblood combined for 175 catches and 2,483 yards along with 16 touchdowns, prime reasons the Tigers finished the season in the top 25 of both polls.

Hamilton was a third-round draft pick and became just the second wide receiver in Tiger history to go over 1,000 yards receiving in a season. Youngblood finished with 70 receptions in 2003, tied for second-most in Clemson history. Currie established the school single-game reception mark as well.

The outstanding play of the wide receivers continued in 2004 when Airese Currie became the first Tiger wideout in 24 years to lead the ACC in receptions per game. His 61 receptions for 868 yards were a big reason Clemson went 5-1 over the last six games of the 2005 season. Currie was also a First-Team All-ACC wide receiver in 2004 and a fifth-round NFL draft pick of the Chicago Bears in 2005.

Swinney has also made a significant impact on Clemson's program from a recruiting standpoint. In February of 2005, he was named one of the top-25 recruiters in the country by Rivals.com. Swinney has signed 18 players over the last two seasons as well.

Swinney, 35, received a bachelor of science degree in commerce and business administration at Alabama in 1993 after lettering three times for the Crimson Tide (1990-92). A walk-on who went on to earn a scholarship, Swinney played wide receiver and was a member of Alabama's 1992 National Championship team under Head Coach Gene Stallings. His position coach was Bowden in 1989 and former Tiger Assistant Coach Woody McCorvey was his mentor from 1990-92. Swinney was also an Academic All-SEC member and SEC Scholar Athlete Honor Roll member in both 1990 and 1992.

Along with his appearance in the 1993 Sugar Bowl, his Alabama teams played in the 1991 Fiesta Bowl, 1991 Blockbuster Bowl, and 1990 Sugar Bowl. Both Sugar Bowl appearances came after winning the SEC Championship game.

After his playing career came to an end, Swinney served as a graduate assistant coach during the 1993-95 seasons for the Crimson Tide program, where he coached in the 1994 Gator Bowl and 1995 Citrus Bowl. In both the 1994 and 1995 seasons, he coached Alabama in the SEC Championship game after winning the SEC Western Division title. In December of 1995, he received a master's degree in business administration from Alabama.

Swinney became a full-time assistant at Alabama in February of 1996 and coached a total of five seasons at Alabama on a full-time basis. He was assigned to coach the Crimson Tide's wide receivers and tight ends in 1996, a season that saw Alabama win the SEC Western Division championship and make an Outback Bowl appearance. The following season, when Alabama played in the Music City Bowl, he solely coached the tight ends under new Head Coach Mike DuBose.

Then in January of 1998, he coached Alabama's wide receivers, a position he held for three seasons. At the end of the 1999 campaign, Swinney coached the Crimson Tide in the 2000 Orange Bowl after winning the SEC championship game.

Since 1997, Swinney has had 14 former players either drafted or sign free agent contracts. The list includes Currie, Hamilton, Youngblood, and former All-American Freddie Milons, Alabama's all-time leading receiver in terms of receptions and second in yardage.

In all, Swinney was a part of six seasons of at least 10 victories and five top-10 finishes with the Crimson Tide as a player and coach. From April of 2001 through February of 2003, he was in private business in Alabama.

Swinney married the former Kathleen Bassett in 1994. The couple has three sons, Will (6), Drew (5), and Clay (2).

Assistant Coach Ron West

- Outside Linebackers
- 7th Season at Clemson
- Clemson '79

Ron West has helped bring Clemson to new heights in his six years as an assistant coach.

The Tigers have been bowl eligible every year, including 2003 when the Tigers defeated #6 Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. It has been a resurgence similar to the one he helped generate as a player in 1977 and 1978 at Clemson under the late Charley Pell.

For West's first five years, he served as Clemson's offensive line coach. In 2004, he moved to the defensive line, where he helped the Tigers to top-26 final NCAA rankings in total defense, pass defense, and pass efficiency defense. Additionally, Clemson led the ACC in sacks and ranked in the top 10 in the nation in that category. His unit was a major reason the Tigers allowed just 12.2 points per game over the last six games of 2004.

In 1999, West returned to Clemson with Tommy Bowden to coach the Tiger offensive line. He inherited the smallest offensive line in the nation and the youngest Clemson starting five interior linemen since 1943. All the Clemson offense did was average over 400 yards per game of total offense, the third-highest figure in Tiger history, and score 42 touchdowns, fifth highest in Tiger history. His group helped pave the way for an offense that set 26 school records.

The records continued to fall in 2000, as 47 more offensive marks were set. Included in the marks was the single-season total offense record. Balance was the watchword of the Clemson attack in 2000, and the play of the offensive line was a key. Clemson was just one of six schools to average at least 200 yards passing and 200 yards rushing. The Tigers finished the season 10th in the nation in rushing and 14th in scoring. The scoring average (34.6) was the highest by a Tiger team in 100 years.

The 2003 season saw Clemson average 420 yards per game, the fourth-highest total in Tiger history. The team's 5.7 yards per play average was second-best. The play of the offensive line had much to do with the Tigers setting the school mark for passing yardage, completions, and touchdown passes.

His players have made great improvement over their careers. In both 2000 and 2001, center Kyle Young was a second-team All-American on the field and a first-team Academic All-American.

West is one of the most experienced and well-rounded coaches on the Tiger staff. This is his 26th year as a Division I assistant coach. He has had nine years of experience on the defensive side, including seven as a coordinator, and 16 years of experience on the offensive side.

West was a member of two Gator Bowl teams as a reserve offensive lineman in 1977 and 1978. As a Tiger, West saw action in over 200 plays as a reserve at the right guard and right tackle spots in 1978. He transferred to Clemson from Marion Institute, where he was a junior college All-American.

Clemson finished 1978 with an 11-1 record and ranked #6 in the final AP Poll. A versatile player, West started two games that year, one at right guard against Virginia Tech and one at right tackle against Virginia. He spent most of his time as a backup to Joe Bostic, who later went on to a 10-year NFL career. Clemson was 19-4-1 in the two years he played in Tigertown. He was a member of the team that played in the 1978 Gator Bowl and gained victory over Ohio State.

When West first left Clemson, he became a graduate assistant coach at Livingston. He first met Tommy Bowden shortly thereafter during a four-month stint at East Carolina between 1979 and 1980. West went on to coach the offensive line at North Texas State during the 1980 season.

In 1981, he joined the Texas Tech staff as an offensive line and special teams coach. He served in that capacity for four years before switching to defense in 1985 as the assistant linebacker coach.

West's next stop was Louisiana-Lafayette. He spent seven years with the Ragin' Cajuns as defensive coordinator and inside linebackers coach. In his final season, he was the assistant head coach.

West's Ragin' Cajun defenses ranked among the nation's top 20 in total defense three times. Under West, the defense was ranked nationally in at least one defensive category for six straight years.

After leaving Louisiana-Lafayette, West joined the staff at Baylor as offensive line coach. There, he was a part of the Baylor team that was a co-winner of the 1994 Southwest Conference title. That season, the Bear offensive line helped set the school record for points and touchdowns in a season. During the 1994 and 1995 seasons, the Bears averaged more than 210 rushing yards per game. In his final year, he served as running game coordinator.

West joined the Tulane staff in 1997. His influence on the offensive line was felt immediately. The Green Wave offensive line helped the offensive unit produce almost 4,700 yards of total offense and a school-record 375 points. The offensive line gave up just 11 sacks for the year.

In 1998, on the way to a 12-0 record, the offensive line helped Tulane become the only school in the nation to average over 300 yards passing and 200 yards rushing during the regular season. The team was ranked among the nation's top 25 in both categories throughout the season.

West is married to the former Becky Horne. The couple has two children, Brad (22) and Lori (19). Brad is a senior linebacker at Appalachian State, where he made 20 starts the last three years. He was named special teams captain in 2004 as well.

Football Administration

Donald Hymel

Assistant AD • Football Operations

Donald Hymel is in his seventh season as the Assistant Athletic Director for Football Relations. Hymel's main responsibility as assistant athletic director for football operations is working with the day-to-day operations of the football program. Some main emphasis areas include working with Pro Scouts, overseeing the walk-on program, handling coaches clinics and summer camps, team travel, insuring the proper exchange of videos between teams, and handling official and unofficial campus visits by recruits.

Hymel came to Clemson after a three-year stint as the assistant equipment manager at Tulane. In 1998, he served as an administrative assistant with the Green Wave program in addition to his duties of assistant equipment manager.

While at Tulane, Hymel (pronounced HEE-mehl) also assisted the football program in conducting such activities as the annual coaches' clinic, alumni golf tournament, summer camp, and kickoff cruise.

Hymel, 42, was the head football equipment manager at Nicholls State before accepting his position at Tulane. He is familiar with the ACC, as he worked as a student assistant in North Carolina's recruiting office.

Hymel is a 1988 graduate of Louisiana State, where he served as a student equipment manager. He also has done postgraduate studies at the United States Sports Academy in Mobile, AL.

Andy Johnston

Assistant AD • Football Management

Andy Johnston is in his ninth year as the assistant athletic director for football management. His responsibilities with the football team include managing the program's day-to-day operations. Although this is Johnston's ninth year with the football program, he has been involved with the Clemson athletic department for 24 years. From 1983-97, he was the winningest women's tennis coach in Clemson history.

In those 15 years, Johnston guided his squads to five consecutive ACC titles (1983-87), 12 top-25 finishes, and six NCAA Tournaments. Johnston was named ACC Coach-of-the-Year for the fourth time and Southeast Region Coach-of-the-Year for the second time in 1993. Seven players he coached at Clemson were named to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary team in 2002.

Johnston had a record of 254-160 at Clemson and had a career mark of 263-167. He was the coach at Furman in 1982 before coming to Clemson. His best season at Clemson was his rookie year when the Lady Tigers had a 30-5 record and finished seventh in the final rankings. That team won all nine flights of the ACC Tourney, the only tennis team in Tiger history to do that. He coached tennis pro and Lady Tiger Gigi Fernandez, who will be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame this year.

Johnston played for Clemson on the hardcourt and earned his degree in administrative management in 1979. He then served as the assistant men's tennis coach for the 1980 season before moving on to Furman.

Johnston, 48, is a native of Summerville, SC. He is married to the former Sophie Woorons and has two daughters, Caylynn (18) and Kiera (15).

Important NCAA Terms

Academic Credentials - A prospect should check with his guidance office to see if he is taking classes that will meet NCAA eligibility standards. A prospect should do this early - prior to his sophomore year - and keep track of core courses. A prospect will need to take either the ACT or SAT for NCAA certification.

Contact - NCAA rules define a contact as a face-to-face interaction with a prospect and/or his parents off Clemson's campus by a coach. The NCAA sets a contact period for football prospects from late November through the end of January. That is the only time coaches can meet with a prospect away from the Clemson campus.

Core Courses - Courses at a prospect's high school that are considered college preparatory. For the class entering Clemson in 2006, 14 core courses are required, including four in English, two in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and three additional courses. For the class entering Clemson in 2008, 16 core courses are required, including four in English, three in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and four additional courses. A high school prospect's guidance counselor will have a list of the school's core courses, or you can visit NCAAClearinghouse.net for more information.

Dead Period - Recruiting period when coaches may not have face-to-face contact with prospects on or off Clemson's campus. Coaches may continue to telephone and write a prospect.

Evaluation - In April and May of a prospect's junior year, coaches will come to a prospect's high school, and review his athletic and academic credentials with his coach. In the fall, they may watch a prospect compete one time, but they will not have any contact.

Home Visit - During the contact period, a senior prospect may invite college coaches to his home to meet his parents, and to talk in detail about the football program and academic offerings at any college the prospect is considering.

Receiving Mail - When a prospect is in the ninth and 10th grades, NCAA rules allow Clemson to mail a questionnaire, NCAA educational information, and a summer-camp brochure to a prospect. After September 1 of the prospect's junior year, coaches can provide a prospect with the following: write personalized letters, send a media guide and copies of newspaper articles, and a schedule card. A prospect can receive a football game program when he visits the Clemson University campus.

Recruiting - A term used to describe the process of acquainting a prospect with a college and the coaches of that college, who are striving to learn more about a prospect. Only coaches can recruit - no one else is permitted to persuade a prospect to play sports at a particular college.

Prospect - Any student who has entered the ninth grade. Once a person becomes a prospect, NCAA rules define how college coaches can interact with that prospect.

Telephone - Clemson football coaches can call a prospect once in May of the prospect's junior year. After September 1 of a prospect's senior year, a coach can call a prospect once a week. A prospect can expect unlimited calls during the contact period, before his official visit and once the prospect has signed a National Letter of Intent.

Frequently Asked Questions

- Are a prospect's parents invited for an official visit? Yes. NCAA rules allow a school to provide lodging and meals for parents or legal guardians who accompany their child on an official visit. However, NCAA rules do not allow schools to provide transportation for parents unless they drive with their son.
- Can a prospect visit Clemson anytime during his high school career? Yes. A prospect can have his high school coach call Tiger coaches to set up an unofficial visit. He can attend a football game and talk with Tiger coaches, and it does not count as a contact when it is on Clemson's campus. There are times a prospect cannot visit - NCAA rules refer to them as "dead periods," and coaches will not schedule to meet with a prospect during that time period.
- Can IPTAY members help recruit me? No. NCAA rules are clear; only Clemson coaches can telephone, contact, and evaluate a prospect. Only college coaches can offer unofficial/official visits.

- Is the prospect's high school coach invited for an official visit? NCAA rules are such that high school coaches may not be provided any expenses for official visits.
- What is a National Letter of Intent (NLI)? It is a contract; a prospect and his parents sign a promise that the prospect will attend a particular college. In return, that college promises a prospect financial aid. A prospect signs it during his senior year (in February for football). Once the prospect signs it, he cannot be recruited by any other school, and it is a binding contract for the prospect's first year in college at the school that provides the NLI.
- What is IPTAY? IPTAY is an organization of Clemson fans. It has over 23,000 members. It generates financial support for the athletic department, and it is the best in the country!
- What is an official visit? A prospect can take five official visits, which are expense-paid. Before the visit, the prospect must present a high school transcript and proof of an SAT, ACT, PACT, or PSAT test. Official visit invitations are extended by Tiger coaches only. Official visits may not occur prior to the first day of class of the prospect's senior year in high school.
- What is the NCAA Clearinghouse? It is the agency that certifies a prospect's eligibility for NCAA Division I and Division II. A prospect should register with the NCAA Clearinghouse at the end of his junior year in high school. Applications are available in the prospect's guidance office. Cost is $32.

President James F. Barker

Clemson University President James F. Barker came to the office in 1999 with a clear vision of Clemson's future. A 1970 Clemson University graduate, Barker has established a goal of making the university one of the nation's top-20 public universities - an institution that draws outstanding faculty and students, provides an unmatched academic experience, and helps drive the state's economic development.

Clemson has made significant strides in this area and reached a #32 ranking among public institutions according to U.S. News & World Report in 2005. That represents a seven-position jump in the last two years and a 40-position improvement since 1997.

"South Carolina needs a top-tier research university, and our students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research, and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Clemson, already South Carolina's top-ranked public university, is making strides toward that goal. During Barker's presidency, the university has:

- been recognized as TIME Magazine's Public College-of-the-Year;
- developed an academic strategic plan with eight emphasis areas aligned with the state's economic needs;
- implemented an enrollment management plan to protect the quality of classroom teaching and allow for more student/faculty interaction;
- redesigned the general education curriculum to focus on learning outcomes, and give undergraduates more opportunities for study abroad, service-learning, and research activities;
- more than doubled external research funding; and
- completed Clemson's largest capital campaign.

Working with private industry and state leaders, Barker also has steered Clemson into a greater economic development role. In a span of just six months, Clemson broke ground for the Clemson University International Center for Automotive Research (Clemson-ICAR) in Greenville, SC, dedicated a state-of-the-art biosystems research complex, and constructed a state-of-the-art Advanced

Building a Future for Clemson

Materials Research Laboratory at the Clemson Research Park. All three projects represent substantial investment in areas related to South Carolina's most promising economic clusters.

Barker also is becoming a leading voice in higher education in South Carolina and beyond. He chaired the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting body, during a period that included the search for a new president, and served as chair of the ACC Council of Presidents for three consecutive years, including the 2003-04 academic year when he was significantly involved in the expansion of the league with the addition of Boston College, Miami (FL), and Virginia Tech.

He also has earned recognition as a community leader, receiving South Carolina's Order of the Palmetto, induction into the Boys & Girls Club Hall of Fame, the Greater Greenville Chamber of Commerce's Buck Mickel Award for Business and Community Leadership, and Anderson Independent-Mail's "Pointing the Way" Leadership Award for Community Service.

Jim & Marcia Barker

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson in 1970 and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO in 1973. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

Barker, Clemson's 14th President, is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate

Barker's Goals By 2010

Academics, Research, & Service

1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson's academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly-regarded faculty and staff.
5. Seek and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life

1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize and appreciate Clemson's distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Clemson's National Reputation

1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty members win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Educational Resources

1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Student Performance

1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top-10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects as well.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have a son and daughter-in-law, Jacob and Rita Bolt Barker, and another son, Britt.

Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips

Clemson Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips is known for his love of Tiger traditions, spirit, and pride, deemed Solid Orange. Yet his deep satisfaction comes with what that united Clemson strength of mind brings, "a reality toward building a model program that can compete at the highest levels in all sports."

As visible as the statewide "orange outbreak" of the Tiger faithful that Phillips promotes, a towering mark of his mission emerged this year when his plan for the WestZone expansion of Memorial Stadium progressed to near round-the-clock construction. As has been his style for more than 25 years in all aspects of athletic administration, Phillips' focus is on enhancing the infrastructure in a deliberate, quality manner.

"There's nothing worse than trying to maintain status quo," said Phillips, who became Clemson's 10th athletic director on July 1, 2002. That motto has been a basic tenet that has characterized his career as an administrator and his pursuit to develop Clemson into a model athletic program in the 21st century. His beliefs are in line with the University's overall goal of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the nation.

His resolve comes from a unique balance of experience in nearly every phase of college athletics as well as a devotion to higher education that includes both a doctorate and law degree. He remains a classroom presence in the spring semester by teaching a Sports Law section for Clemson's Department of Accountancy and Legal Studies. In addition, Phillips is chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all university and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions.

Those influences are obvious in his strategic plan for Clemson Athletics, which primarily provides for a model program that can compete at the highest levels with academic integrity, concern for the student-athlete, financial responsibility, and in full compliance.

Steady strides have been made toward these goals through facility improvements and the development of concepts that will serve the entire program, starting with the current endzone expansion at Memorial Stadium. This fall, the facility will feature new lockerrooms for both teams and a new scoreboard. In 2006, 1,000 premium club seats will open and create a vital new revenue stream for future facilities.

After the completion of the club seats, plans call for a new comprehensive football building at Memorial Stadium. It will benefit the entire department, as it will create additional updated facilities in the McFadden Building for Clemson's Olympic sports program. A "One Clemson Center" will also be constructed to showcase the history of Clemson University, including its military and athletic heritage.

Since Phillips' arrival at Clemson, many highlights toward being a model program have occurred on the field as well, beginning with Clemson's first-ever national championship in golf. His second year included an incredible run on the gridiron to end the season, as Tommy Bowden's Tigers defeated #3 Florida State in November and #6 Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. The women's tennis team was one of three programs to win ACC Championships in the same weekend and advanced to the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament, the first women's athletic team in Clemson history to reach the Final Four in any postseason tournament. Nancy Harris' team duplicated the accomplishment in 2004-05.

In the most recent school year, 15 of Clemson's 19 sports programs advanced to postseason play. The list included six programs which were chosen for NCAA Tournament competition (baseball, golf, rowing, women's soccer, men's tennis, women's tennis). The program had 62 All-ACC selections, 14 All-America selections, and seven student-athletes who were named at least academic all-region.

In terms of personnel, Phillips made national news when he hired Oliver Purnell as Clemson's head basketball coach in 2003. Purnell has had a history of rejuvenating basketball programs, and it appears he is continuing that trend at Clemson. He led the Tigers to postseason play in 2004-05, their first postseason appearance in seven years.

Phillips also enhanced his department's diversity by naming former NCAA Administrator Phil Grayson and former Clemson All-America football player Jeff Davis to assistant athletic director positions. He also promoted Barbara Kennedy-Dixon to the senior women's administrator position when Linda White retired in the summer of 2005.

Clemson has also continued to raise standards when it comes to the school's overall mission of academics. In the spring of 2005, a record 245 student-athletes were named to the Academic Honor Roll, including a record 121 who were named to the President's List. Additionally, a record-tying eight programs had over a 3.0 GPA for the semester.

Excellence in academics has been a constant on Phillips' resumé. He has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the University of Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, American Bar Association, and the Sports Lawyers Association.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in nearly all phases of college athletics. He coached on the football staff at Virginia Tech, supervised spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and had 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level, prior to his appointment at Clemson, coming from Oklahoma State.

When it came to success on the field and in the classroom, OSU's programs under Phillips were among the best in the Big 12 Conference. The achievements of the Oklahoma State program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national championships in men's golf, a men's basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, 13

Big 12 Championships, and 11 individual national champions. Academically, it had 53 academic All-Americans as well.

Very importantly, OSU's football program was transformed from its perennial losing role to defeat its arch-rival Oklahoma five out of the eight years that Phillips was associated with the program, including an upset of the #4 Sooner team in 2001 that knocked them from the national championship race.

For this highly-significant improvement in Cowboy football, Phillips received the National Football Foundation's Oklahoma Chapter Outstanding Contribution to Amateur Football Award in 2002.

In the year of his departure, the football program also produced a 100-percent graduation rate of its 1997 recruiting class (of those who finished their eligibility), as well as winning the Houston Bowl.

From a facilities enhancement standpoint, Phillips provided leadership toward the completion of approximately $65 million in new construction. A new athletics center included the expansion of historic Gallagher-Iba Arena, earning CBS Sportsline's award as the nation's best college basketball venue.

Phillips also supervised the planning (through conceptual design, capital campaign, and board approval) of a $50-million renovation to Oklahoma State's football stadium, which began in 2003.

Before leading Oklahoma State, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was also athletic director at Louisiana-Lafayette from 1983-88 and Liberty from 1980-81. He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri from 1981-83, and began his administrative career in 1978 as an assistant athletic director at Florida.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration. During his coaching career in Blacksburg, he served with former Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford.

Winning has been in Phillips' resumé since his playing days. At Arkansas, he lettered on Frank Broyles's teams of 1966, 1968, and 1969. The Razorbacks were a combined 27-5 in those three seasons and played in two Sugar Bowl games. Phillips played defensive tackle for the Razorbacks in the famous 1969 Arkansas-Texas game that decided the national title.

In addition to Phillips' leadership with the NCAA Infractions Appeals Committee, he also works with the NCAA certification program. He currently serves on several ACC Committees: Finance Committee, chair of the Committee on Infractions and Penalties, Television Committee, the Men's Basketball Committee, and the Football Committee.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis (28) and Sarah-Jane (25), and three stepchildren, Meagan (16), Marshall (14), and Madison (12). His wife Tricia is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, and earlier enjoyed a career in athletics and development. She is now active in the Clemson and Seneca communities.

Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics offers nationally prominent athletic programs. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, a competitive athletic program, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches, and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to Clemson University.

The mission of the Athletic Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow, develop, and serve the interests of Clemson University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life.

Furthermore, the Athletic Department seeks to be a source of pride for the citizens of the State of South Carolina and to be recognized as a nationally prominent program, through consistently high levels of performance and accomplishment in athletic competitions.

The Athletic Department strives to develop student-athletes academically and athletically with the total commitment of aiding their efforts to graduate from Clemson University and advance to careers that will enable them to be productive members of society.

The Athletic Department will act in an ethical and honest manner, dedicated to compliance with all Federal, State, NCAA, Conference, and University rules and regulations.
